Excavation of Harappan Civilisation

283. SHRI SOLIPETA RAMACHADRA REDDY: Will the Minister of TOURISM AND CULTURE be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that three year long excavation of Rakhigarhi in Haryana has unearthed the remains of what could have been the "Provincial Capital" of the Harappan Civilisation in Hissar district;

(b) if so, the details thereof; and

(c) the action taken to preserve the area as a unique historical place and continue the excavation?

THE MINISTER OF TOURISM AND CULTURE (SHRI ANANTH KUMAR):

(a) and (b) Yes, Sir. Rakhigarhi in Hissar district, Haryana was probably a major urban centre at the eastern edge of the Harappan empire and, could in that sense, be considered a Provincial Capital.

The three consecutive excavations conducted at the site since 1997-98 onwards have yielded remains/evidence of public building and drainage, in addition to the evidence of activities of specialized crafts and long distance trade in material which were not available locally.

A good number of diagnostic artifacts recovered from the site include terracotta figurines; pieces of ornaments of gold, silver, copper, shell, semi-precious stones, steatite, faience, clay, bone, etc., stone weights, seals and sealings. In addition lithic and ceramic assemblages have also been found. A Harappan cemetery has also been identified.

The site has also yielded evidence of a pre-Harappan settlements.

(c) The considerable findings unearthed so far need careful analysis before further excavations can be considered.
